STARVING TO DEATH.

Pitiable Condition of Striking Cloakmakers' Families.

Without Food or Money and Being Evicted from Their Homes.

An Appeal to the Public for Immediate Relief of the Distress.

Many of them have reached the end of that resource, and more than a hundred of them are to-day suffering the pangs of hunger.

There are about eight hundred on strike, including cloakmakers, operators, tailors, finishers and pressers. Of this number fully 500 are married men with families. The rest are young men and girls.

Their last pay day was Tuesday last week, and the largest sum any of them received for ten days' work, was $5.40. The pay envelopes of the girls ranged from 30 to 60 cents

With a helpless mien one of the strikers said this morning to an Evening World reporter: · We might as well starve in idleness as to work and starve."

Ten families were evicted yesterday from 216 Pitt street. With money contributed by sympathetic people Leader Barondess secured new quarters for them.

With tears in his eyes H. Nagel reported this morning that the agent of the tenement at 64 Forsyth street, where he lived, had served a dispossess notice upon him and that his wife was very sick in bed. He had begged or two days' time and this had been granted. but what he was going to do then he didn't

One after another similar reports are being received by the Executive Committee, and in their extremity they have issued an appear to the public for aid.

" A thousand dollars a week isn't much to divide among 800 people to keep them from starving," said Leader Barondess, " but with that we could keep the wolf from the door." Treasurer Meses Kunze, of 152 Second suffering will be dreadful.

The strikers claim that the employers are endeavoring to force them back into the the charge of extortion and that the tailors be made independent of the operators.

A mass-meeting will be held in Cooper Union to-night to place the strikers' side of the case before the public and to officially deny the report that the strike had been

Threaten to Come Again to Meet "the Emperor's Butchers."

Sixty and More Men Woundede a Hundred Left as Prisoners.

SAPECIAL CABLE TO THE EVENING WORLD. I BERLIS, Feb. 25.—A riotous demonstration was made before the Emperor's castle, at about 1 o'clock this atternoon, by a throng of probably 4,000 unemployed workmen. The men were eventually driven back by trong force of police, but their end for the present seemed to have been attained and their retreat was something of a triumphant one, though they left nearly a hundred pris-oners in the hands of the officers.
